The cost of this establishment, has been considerable, and the Proprietors are sorry to say the proceeds arising from it are not sufficient to warrant the opening of it another season under the present limited patronage. FOR THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

PARODY,

Of Gray's celebrated Elegy, written in a country Church-yard.

Scene—SEMINARY RANGE. The School house in view.

THE sinking sun emits his last faint ray
And flings the long-drawn shadows o'er the lea;
The jocund school-boys homeward skip away
And leave the purlieus of the Range to me.

Now Day's bright colours fade upon the eye,
And all the scene a solemn stillness keeps;
Save where young Zephyr, briskly passing by,
With panting breath, thro' dangling foliage sweeps:

Save that, from yonder farm, a good way off,
The swine's shrill clarion echoes o'er the plain—
Eve's usual serenade, around the trough,
Teeming with swill, or heaped with cobs & grain.

Within yon walls, beneath the forest's shade,
Skreen'd from the summer-beams, however thick,
Each to his desk, where many a prank is played,
Daily the urchins of the hamlet stick.

The ardent hope to learn their A, B, C,
The bible con, and scan each moral rule,
Or cipher to the golden Rule of Three,
Shall often draw their footsteps to the School.

Whilst still, at home, for them the hearth shall blaze,
And busy mothers ply their evening care,
Their fathers with accustomed fondness gaze,
Or make, in turn their listening children stare.

Oft shall the sugar-camp its sweetness yield,
And Oaks succumb to their repeated stroke;
Oft shall they roll huge logs, high heap'd, a-field
And make the stumps thro' many an acre smoke.

Mock not, ye city fops! their annual toil,
Their destiny obscure, and rustick jokes;
Nor hear, ye belles! with a disdainful smile,
The simple annals of these country folks.

The rage for politicks, the dust of towns,
Nor all that Fashion, all that Style imparts—
(Unrelish'd by the taste of honest clowns—)
Kindles no glow of fondness in their hearts.

Nor you, ye erudite, so deeply read,
Whose brains the lust for science may have crazed,
Blame the poor children whom their sires ne'er led
To be for literary honours praised.

Can all the bays that Criticks ever gave
Indent a furrow in yon vale or hill?
Can Party-zeal the peasant's harvest save?
Or Grandeur help to send one grist to mill?

Perhaps, e'en now, within some neighboring cot,
Hearts fraught with native talent may be hid,
Heads which, had they in colleges been taught,
Might know as much as Bacon's ever did.

But Providence to these poor girls and boys,
Spreads not Philosophy's extensive scroll;
Hard work the springs of genius oft destroys,
But never blows its sparks into a coal.

Full many a lad in these back-woods is seen
To tree a squirrel or pursue a deer,
And many a dairy maid or cottage quean
Moves Cynthia like, within her stated sphere.

Some Washington, in whose intrepid breast
The seed of patriotism with life was sown,
Some bard of Milton's powerful muse possess'd,
Passes, perchance, his fruitless days unknown.

The applause of simpering coxcombs to command,
In feats of war and gaming to engage,
To call down judgments on a groaning land,
And stain with infamy the historick page.

Their lot forbids: nor does it merely stint
The fumes of passion and their growth in ill;—
Far from that taste which rules the world of print,
Fame never speaks of them,—and never will.

Free from the guilt of those ambitious knaves
Who in their country's wrongs record their shame,
Averse from sailing on the boisterous waves
Which toss the players of a higher game:

They, midst the maddening crowd's licentious strife,
From sober wishes ne'er were led astray,—
Along the cool sequestered vale of life
They keep the noiseless tenor of their way.

Yet tho' remote from Fashion's giddy whirl,
And having barely learnt to read and spell,
There's scarce a boy in all the school, or girl,
Devoid of emulation to excel.

Nor wholly dead are they to love of fame,
From which so few of Adam's race are free,
Since many a beech-bark, scratch'd with many a name
Betrays their hope of perpetuity.

And who that merits not the name of dunce,
E'er lost the wish of being borne in mind;
Or left the school's frequented haunts, nor once
Sent forth a longing, lingering look behind?

On each fond breast the boon companion leans,
Some pledge of early friendship to impart;
Nor can life's cares and all its busy scenes
Wipe first impressions from the school boy's heart.

Of him, who mindful of the juvenile throng,
Thus mingles with their own his artless tale,
If, unpresuming he may bid the song
Fill with its cadency the passing gale—

Haply, without offence, it may be said,
That from the crowded walks of men withdrawn,
Here the Recluse, by whim or duty led,
Found an asylum in these woods and lawn;

Where far removed from folly and from care,
That fill the heart of feeling with distress,
He laboured hard by piety and prayer
To win his smile that has the pow'r to bless.

Oft in yon grove at night, or early morn,
Listening to Wisdom's dictates he would rove;
Now drooping, woful man, like one forlorn,
Now gladdened by the smiles of heavenly love.

At length he vanished from his favourite wood
Where some supposed to stay he always meant;
Nor could the wisest of the neighbourhood
Find out, with all their shrewdness why he went.

Yet did he not, when thus he went away,
Go, without first exhibiting his mind,
And thou (if so disposed) mayst read the lay,
Which he contrived to pen and leave behind.

THE CLOSE.

Here lately dwelt, on this rude spot of earth,
One who desired to pass thro' life unknown;
He moral prized, and intellectual worth,
More than the pelf for which so many groan.

High were his views, tho' oft his aim he miss'd,
Yet Heav'n did not his labours quite contemn;
He gave hard rubs to minds much prejudiced,
And, in return, he gain'd hard rubs from them.

It matters little who were once his foes,
Nor what his sentiments which they deem'd odd;
He sought a tranquil life, and freely chose
To tread the unfrequented paths he trod.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.

Latest from France.

To capt. Young of the ship Sachem, from Bordeaux, we are indebted for Paris papers to the 29th Sept. There has been a complete change in the French ministry.

Cæsar and Constantine Faucher, two French citizens were shot at Bordeaux for treasonable practices on the 27th of Sept. A paper of the 28th contains their trial and condemnation. It is too long for publication to-day.

The Emperor of Morocco had declared war against Russia, Prussia and Sicily.

The first cabinet of the king of France at the head of which were Talleyrand and Fouche, not pleasing or harmonising with the court and its allies, have retired from office, and Louis has appointed a list of thorough-going Bourbonites and Royalists to succeed them. Louis is said to be rapidly declining in health; and, having the dropsy, will probably terminate his existenev in a short time. That event will be the signal for fresh disturbances and revolutions, if tranquility should last till that period.

Paris and the northern parts of France have suffered as much as human nature can bear, from the exactions and devastations of the allies. So say letters from the friends of the Bourbons. The same letters mention in positive terms, the open, manifest differences between the British and Prussian officers, extending even to Wellington and Blucher.

LONDON, SEPT. 18.

It appears that the sentence of the court martial held at Montreal, relative to the conduct of gen. Proctor, has been so much disapproved by the government, that the members would have been reassembled to reconsider it, had it not been found impracticable, on account of local circumstances, to have recourse to such a measure. The major general has been sentenced to be publicly reprimanded.

The court martial held in Dublin, in relation to the conduct of Lt. Col. Mullins, of the 44th regt. at New Orleans, has acquitted him of the charge of want of personal courage; but condemned him to be broke, which the Prince Regent has approved.

FROM HAMBURGH.

We have been favored with Hamburgh papers to Oct. 4th, containing London and Paris dates to Sept. 25. Mr. Kahler has obliged us with the following translations:

LONDON, SEPT. 25.

The Prussian commander at Paris, baron Muffling, has published, that until the murderer of Kean, an Englishman, was discovered, he should levy a daily contribution of 2000 francs on the citizens of the Boulevards of Coblentz.

[Kean was an army contractor. He had an amour, and afterwards dismissed his mistress, who threatened to be revenged. His body was found pierced with a sword.]

HAMBURGH, OCT. 3.

Change of Ministers in France.

Letters from Paris of the 25th ult. say, the recent Ministerial changes may be said to form the greatest epoch in the reign of Louis 18th. Parties have measured their strength, and the Angoulemes are victorious. Although Fouche and Talleyrand, may be sincere in their support of the King, yet they were considered men whose politics could not heartily be confided in. It was known the Bonapartists looked upon them as their chiefs, so far as regarded shielding from punishment, as they had been equally guilty. They had both been temporizers and intriguers, and Fouche had given offence to the allies by the private circulars.

The state of France continues gloomy. The treaty is not published: Disturbances continue in the South, and the Austrians have orders not to interfere between the citizens. On the Lower Loire there is a ferment, and an insurrection is expected: The finances are exhausted; and the Legislature which is about to meet, will have to transact their business with Ministers with whom they are unacquainted.

A letter from Paris says the Jacobins are offended with Fouche, for resigning.

HAMBURGH, OCT. 4.

We can now with confidence inform our readers that the difinitive Treaty between France and the Allies, is nearly concluded. His Prussian Majesty has ordered that no more of his troops shall be marched into France, as peace is nigh.

BRUSSELS, SEPT. 27.

A corps of 15,000 of the allied troops have surrounded Lille, and demanded its surrender.

NAPLES, AUG. 22.

All the national dominions, and the donations of Joseph Bonaparte and Murat, are to be restored to the original proprietors.

From the Boston Centinel, Nov. 15.

FROM ALL EUROPE.

Advices and arrivals are flowing in from all quarters of Europe; the details are voluminous, but we have only room for results.

France continued the theatre of interest: The Bourbon sway appeared strongly fixed—Louis had changed all his Ministers,* and reorganized a large army devoted to his house. The successors of Fouche and Co. are nobles and statesmen of the old school; and all the new appointments are Royalists. Numerous indications existed that the bases of the definitive Treaty were settled, and that the sovereigns and negociators were on the eve of returning:—Many of their troops were leaving France: We do not see in French affairs any thing which threaten serious opposition to the Bourbons. When it is considered of what heterogenus materials the vast interior of the kingdom is composed, our wonder will not be that some districts are feverish, but that the mass should exhibit so much sound health. The Americans in France are said to be unpopular: but the cause can easily be conjectured.

The opening of the new French Parliament, had been postponed to October.

From Russia our advices are to late in September: The speedy return of the Emperor Alexander to his capital was expected. Our Riga correspondent has our thanks for the file of European papers sent us.

It is mentioned in a Hamburgh paper that the Emperor of Russia will return to his dominions by water, and that a frigate has been dispatched to Havre to take him on board.

The Spanish and Portugnese accounts are recent; the Spanish armies which lately entered France have returned, after being menaced by the French, and have gone into quarters: There must have been some mistake in this foolish affair.

A Hamburgh paper of October 3 says, our Paris papers exult greatly, that the hoary headed Talleyrand has at last run on shore and foundered.

Fouche is said to have retired to Saxony, leaving his secretary to transfer his papers to his successor: To save appearances, he requested of the King his dismissal; at the same time protesting his loyalty and devotion; he resigned on the 20th Sept.

* This is important and indicates that Louis the 18th has confidence in the stability of his reign: The immediate cause of this total change is variously accounted for: Some say, it was demanded by the new French Parliament, and that the King heard in the demand the voice of all France: The new Deputies are almost wholly old Royalists, or members of the ancient nobility and gentry: Such men must have a deadly aversion not only to all who were connected with the murder of Louis 16th, but to such revolutionists and constitutionalists, as have lately been prefered to office: Others attribute the change to the predominant influence of the duchess d'Angouleme, (the only surviving branch of Louis 16th,) and her husband, who have returned to Paris from the southern departments: A third see in the removal, the influence of the Allied Cabinets on that of the Thuilleries: The fact is the Bonapartists view in their downfall the extinction of all their hopes.

From the London Courier, Oct. 2.

INSURRECTION IN SPAIN.

The mail from Corunna has brought very important intelligence, nothing less than accounts of an insurrection against the existing government of Spain, in consequence of its SUPPOSED oppression. General Porlier, who distinguished himself so much in the patriotic war, under the name of the Morquesito, assembled a body of troops on the 18th ult. at Santa Lucia, entered the town of Corunna, arrested the principal authorities, and having obtained quiet possession of the town, issued a proclamation, stating the miseries which had been heaped on Spain by the councils which have prevailed since King Ferdinand's return, & asserting that all foreign powers from the very beginning, had strongly disapproved of the king's measures: He proceeds to make the soldiery very flattering offers in the name of the provinces, which he says will regulate themselves by the internal Junta, until the convocation of the Cortes, will determine the future system of government: Further accounts this morning say, the adjoining Provinces are ready to join that of Galicia, and that the next advices will probably bring intelligence of the cause being general throughout Spain. Corunna was illuminated when the packet, which arrived at Falmouth with the mail, left that place; and it seems that the cause of Porlier is popular: This important event gives much interest to the reports respecting the state of Spain: The French papers say, that many old castles have been fitted up as prisons, and that upwards of 50,000 persons have been thrown into confinement for their political opinions, among whom are many of the most brave defenders of the country in the late struggle with France: King Ferdinand is said to have sent out Franciscan Friars as Missionaries to lecture the people against liberal, the modern opinions on politics lectures which have not been well received, particularly at Madrid.

Dispatches have been received in this country from gen. Porlier: We understand they are couched in very sanguine terms, and express confident hopes of success: They are addressed to the friends of gen. Porlier, resident in England.

DUBLIN, OCTOBER 4.

Meeting of Magistrates at Limerick.

With dismay and sorrow, we are compelled to state, that the whole of the county of Limerick, and even the Liberties of the city have been declared by a large and unanimous meeting of the Magistrates, to be in a state of disturbance, and a Memorial has been accordingly transmitted to government: The meeting was held on Tuesday, at the County Court House, to take into consideration the state of the county: The hon. Mr. Quin was called to the chair, when the Magistrates residing in every Barony, were examined seriatim, as to the information they had taken of the state of their respective Baronies, and it was then unanimously Resolved, that a memorial should be sent to the Lord Lieutenant, praying his Excellency and the Privy Council to proclaim the County. The City Magistrates concurring in praying also, that the Liberties of the city, except that part which was attached to, and formed a continuation of the city, should also be included in the proclamation.

BOSTON, Nov. 18.

EUROPEAN (FRENCH) ADVICES.

A few days latest have come to hand. They furnish new evidence that the star of Bourbon was increasing in brightness. Two more of Bonaparte's general have been tried, condemned and executed at Bordeaux: and Ney's trial, though slow, was steadily pursued. The Emperor Francis had given Louis 18th a new evidence of friendship, by inducing his daughter Maria Louisa, solemnly to renounce for herself & son, all pretensions to the throne of France. Immense preparations were making for the splendid opening new Parliament: all the members of which had arrived in Paris. Of 393 members of which the Chamber of Deputies is composed, only 20 of them had any share in the follies of the revolution, or the abominations of the despotism.

The English papers affirm positively that Spain had ceded the Floridas to Great Britain.

NEWPORT, R. I. Nov. 11.

Mediterranean Squadron.

On Thursday afternoon arrived in this Harbour, the U. S. brig Flambeau, John B. Nicholson, Esq. commander, from Gibralter, which place she left on the 7th of October, in company with the squadron under the command of Commodore Bainbridge, consisting of the Independence, 74; frigates Macedonian and Congress: brigs Chippewa, Surinac, Boxer, Fire-Fly, Spark and Enterprize: and schrs. Torch, Spitfire, and Lynx.—The Flambeau parted with the squadron on the night of the 24th of October, off the Western Islands, in a severe gale from the eastward.—The squadron were ordered to rendezvous in this harbour, where with pleasure we learn, they are to remain during the winter.

The frigates United States and Constellation, with the sloops of war Ontario and Erie, were to remain in the Mediterranean, for the purpose of giving protection to our commerce in in those seas.

The frigate Guerriere, Commodore Decatur, was to sail from Gibraltar a few days after the squadron, for New York.

The store ships Alert and John Adams were spoken near Cape Spartal on the 10th October.

We learn, from the officers of the Flambeau, that the Treaty concluded by Com. Decatur with the Dey of Algiers were such as Com. D. thought proper to dictate.—The following we learn are some of the principal articles of the Treaty:—The Dey agrees to restore the American prisoners in his posession, without ransom—pay 10,000 dollars for the brig Edwin and cargo, of Salem, Capt. Smith, which he had captured three years since—to restore a cargo of cotton which he had confiscated, belonging to the Hon. Wm. Gray of Boston—to allow the Americans to send into their ports and dispose of them, any prizes which they should capture from any power which the U. S. should in future be at war with; and they further agree, that in case any power should be at war with the U. S. that power shall only have liberty to send in their prizes for supplies, and to remain only twenty-four hours to procure them, and not upon any consideration to have permission to dispose of the vessels or cargoes—the Dey further agrees, that in case an American citizen should be taken under the flag of any other nation with whom they may be at war, he shall be immediately liberated, and given up to the Consul—in case of the ship wreck of an American vessel, the Captain shall have permission to load his cargo without paying any duties, and may remain there until he has an opportunity of reshipping it or the cargo may be disposed of, upon paying the customary duties—No Presents or Tribute are in future, to be paid by the United States to the Dey.

The Frigate and Brig captured by Com. Decatur, was not restored by virtue of any Article of the Treaty, but given up by Com. Decatur as a present, and at the earnest entreaties of the Dey, who represented the danger he was exposed to from his subjects, in consequence of his having signed a treaty with such favourable terms to the U. S. particularly the restoring of Capt. Smith and crew without ransom, and paying 10,000 dollars for his vessel and cargo, a condition, which the Dey said, they had never before submitted to, in the case of any Christian nation whatever.—The brig was, however, detained at Carthagena by the Spaniards, on the ground that she was captured within their territory, they being then at war with Algiers.

The Treaty with Algiers was signed on the 4th of July, and on the 6th, the brig Epervier, Capt. Shubrick, was despatched to the U. S. with a copy of the Treaty; her not having yet arrived, scarcely a doubt remains but that she must have foundered in the severe gales of August last.

The American Squadron proceeded from Algiers to Tunis, Com. Decatur having learnt that the Bey had permitted an English frigate, during our war with Great-Britain, to come in and take from the harbor of Tunis, two Prizes which had been sent in there by the privateer Abællino, of Boston.—The Commodore demanded, that the Bey should pay 40,000 dollars for the two prizes which had been given up; the Bey, after deliberating a short time agreed to pay the money to the American Consul, as a restitution to the owners of the privateer, for the two vessels.

From Tunis the Squadron proceeded to Tripoli, where Com. D. learnt, that a prize vessel had also been permitted to be taken out of their harbor by a British sloop of war, and that the American Consul had been compelled to take down his flag.—On the arrival of the squadron off the town, Com. Decatur sent in and demanded, that the Bey should pay the sum of 30,000 dollars to the owners of the privateer, for the vessel which had been given up.—The Bey refused, and assembled a great number of his troops from the country to defend the batteries, and threatened to declare war immediately against the U. States; but finding that the American squadron were prepared to chastise him, he then requested an abatement of the sum demanded, as he said, he had not so much money, and upon the American Consul's informing Com. Decatur, that he should be satisfied with $25,000, the commodore agreed to receive that sum, provided the Bashaw would deliver up to him, 90 Christian slaves, among whom was one who had been particularly attentive to the officers of the Philadelphia frigate while in Tripoli; and also, that as the American Consul had been compelled to pull down his flag, he should now re-hoist it under a salute of 31 guns from the Bashaw's castle. The above terms were readily complied with by the Bashaw.

Com. Decatur having thus gallantly settled all our differences with the Barbary powers, & having been joined by com. Bainbridge, to whom the command of the squadron was surrendered, the fleet proceeded to Algiers, and from thence to Malaga and Gibraltar, from which place com. Bainbridge sailed on the 7th of October.

From the New York Gazette, November 17.

Since this day week, there have arrived at this port, fifty five sail of vessels from foreign ports, mostly ships, with valuable cargoes; and after the storm of Easterly weather which now prevails, it is highly probable as many more may come in, in the course of another week: The rapid increase of the commerce of this city, is far beyond the expectations of its most sanguine friends; and if we are not mistaken, New York will pay nearly half the revenue of the United States.

THE MURDERERS CONDEMNED.

Our readers, no doubt, will call to their recollection, the fate of the unfortunate youth, BESSENT, who was murdered in May last, while on his way to St: Mary's, with a considerable sum of money, the property of the U. S. The perpetrators of that horrid deed, have been tried in Camden county, (Geo:) & found guilty: The following paragraphs, conclude the Sentence pronounced upon them, by the hon. Judge Berrien:

"There is yet another reflection! It addresses itself to the surviving citizens of the county: From the grave of the murdered BESSENT, it especially appeals to you, Magistrates of Camden!

"An amiable young man—the stay of a widowed mother—wedded to life himself, by all the endearing ties of conjugal and parental love, has prematurely fallen—fallen by the hand of ruffian violence, in the morning of his days: He was the victim of no secret art—no specious wiles allured him to those scenes of privacy, where murder seeks concealment: He fell by the road side, and the passing traveller, heard not the cry of his anguish! A band of foreigners, desperate because destitute; under cover of the night, leave the town of St: Mary's, which no longer affords them the means of lawless support: They are furnished with a cord to bind—with a knife to slay their victims—and thus armed they go forth, seeking whom they may devour! They take no devious, private path, but boldly in the face of day, pursue their course along the public road, to arrest and immolate the unsuspecting traveller! Magistrates of Camden, where slept your vigilance? Especially those of you, to whom is confided the care of an exposed and frontier town; know you not that the laws arm you with power to prevent the desperadoes of want from prowling thro' your country? Let the fate of the murdered BESSENT, keep this reflection ever present to your minds! Let your future vigilance atone for the unhappy omissions of the past—and give by the strict administration of your country's laws, that protection and security, they are calculated to afford!

"PRISONERS! it remains that I should address to you the language, which the law directs to those standing in the awful situation, in which you are placed! It is considered and ordered by the court, that you, Joseph Almeria, Bartolo Joseph, Antonio Sands, John Fernandez, and Ramon Possada, be taken from hence to the place from whence you came, and from thence, on Monday the 15th day of October, instant, between the hours of 10 o'clock in the morning, and 2 o'clock in the afternoon, of the same day, that you be conducted to the place of public execution, in the county of Camden, and then and there, at such day and place as aforesaid, that you be severally hung by the neck, until you are DEAD!—and may Almighty God have mercy on your souls.

SPAIN.

WHEN Spain had been desolated by a war of many years continuance, it would have been the part of a wise and prudent monarch upon his restoration to have endeavoured to conciliate the affections of a people who had endured for him whilst in captivity every suffering;—but it is much to be feared, that the adversity which the present monarch has experienced has not taught him wisdom.

The short interval of peace that succeeded a war of wide spreading desolation, had given rise, among the friends of humanity to expectations of a period of long repose. These expectations have already "vanished into thin air." The situation of that country is at the present time most deplorable:—the late arrivals have brought accounts of an insurrection against the existing government, in consequence of its great oppression. The French papers say, that many old castles have been fitted up as prisons, and that upwards of 50,000 persons have been thrown into confinement for their political opinions, among whom are many of the bravest defenders of the country in the late struggle with France. Unhappy Spain, what a fate is yours, oppressed beneath a mass of ecclesiastical power, with all its tortures and terrors, and sanctioned by the authority of an ignorant bigoted despot. But the reign of such a tyrant, cannot be of long duration, the people arousing from their lethargy, and surprised at their debasement, will exterminate the monster who is the author of their misfortunes.

"Oh, lovely Spain! renown'd romantic land!
Where is that standard which Pelagio bore
When Cava's traitor-sire first called the band
That dy'd thy mountain streams with Gothic gore?
Where are those bloody banners which of yore
Waved o'er thy sons, victorious to the gale,
And drove at last the spoiler to their shore?—
Red gleam'd the cross, and waned the crescent pale
While Afric's echoes thrill'd with Moorish matron's wail"

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in the Genessee Country, to his friend in this place, dated. GENEVA, Nov. 2, 1815.

"This country is advancing rapidly; in some of our villages buildings are rising up which would not discredit a street in N. York or Philadelphia, but the improvements making in our water as well as land communications are of the greatest importance. One of the locks on the outlet of the Seneca lake is finished in a masterly manner; the masonry is said to be of the best kind. The other is so far advanced that there is no doubt of its being finished next summer. There will then be a water communication from Schenectady to this village, there being a canal and locks at the falls of the Mohawk finished some years ago. This village is well situated to receive and forward goods from the city of New-York for the country on the Ohio, for from this place there is sloop navigation to the head of the Seneca lake, at or near to which there is a road leading to Bath, which may become part of the turnpike from the North river to the Allegheny river—but the best route now is by the Crooked lake, the northern extremity of which is about seven miles from the Seneca lake, the south-western extremity of it being about the same distance from Bath. From Bath there is a turnpike laid out to Angelica, more than three-fourths of which is finished, and different parties at work to make the remainder conveniently passable this winter: to be finished next summer:—From Angelica to Hamilton on the Allegheny river, the road is improving under an act of the legislature appropriating money for that purpose, and the ground is said to be so well chosen that the road will be a very good one when it comes to be well worked. The bridge over the Genessee river on this route, erected last year, is said to be of a very beautiful construction, and so firm as not to be in any danger from the current, which is sometimes very rapid. From this village to Bath by the Seneca and Crooked lakes, there will not be more than fourteen miles land carriage, and from Bath to Hamilton about seventy, so that when the remaining lock on the outlet of the Seneca lake is finished, there will be only about eighty four miles land carriage from Schenectady on the Mohawk river, to Hamilton on the Allegheny river. The outlet of the Crooked lake is also well fitted for lock navigation. This village is very favourably situated for receiving and forwarding goods from Schenectady to Hamilton. The great advantage of this route is that it may be used late in the fall when the navigation of the great lakes becomes precarious; and also during the winter, from Crooked lake to Hamilton, where advantage may be taken soon after the ice breaks up, to descend the Allegheny and Ohio, while it would not be possible to navigate the great lakes for some time after, and then a considerable time must be taken up (besides the disadvantage of loading and unloading, at the different portages) in getting to Le Bœuf, the head of Allegheny navigation on this route. In short, it would be nothing strange if before long, goods should be sent on from the city of New-York to this place, to be forwarded by Bath to Hamilton for Pittsburgh and other places on the Ohio, and we should receive cotton back, as we understand it now comes up from Tennessee.—Salt has been sent to go down the Allegheny some winters ago, before the road was improved at all, and perhaps we may get a vent for some of our plaister of Paris that way, if it is true that it is wanted in the country about Pittsburgh. We should be glad to hear certainly whether this is the case or not."

[From the above it appears that great exertions are making in New-York to improve the internal communications in that state. Is it not full time for Pennsylvania to awake to the importance of this subject, and to improve without delay, and to the best advantage, the route from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh, as well as such other lines of communication as are improvable whether by land or water? If the current is once turned out of its usual direction, it will not be easy to bring it back again.]

NAVIGATION OF THE MISSISSIPPI.

The Steam Boat Vesuvius, captain De Hart, on the 17th Sept. concluded a passage from New Orleans to Natchez, in 7 hours sailing; but, with detentions at Baton Rouge, fort Adams, &c. 3 days and 20 hours in all were consumed in the passage. This vessel being reckoned inferior to the Ætna, it may he viewed as an extraordinary achievement to stem the rapid current of the Mississippi upwards of 200 miles in three days.

With a list of the present taxes, which comprehend almost every thing we eat, drink, wear, or keep for profit or pleasure, before him, how must a re-perusal at this day of the following passages of his writings, suffuse the cheek of Mr. Jefferson?—Franklin Rep.

"A wise and frugal government shall not take from the mouth of labour the bread it has earned!"

"These internal taxes, covering our land with officers, and opening our doors to their intrusion, had already begun that process of domiciliary vexation, which, once entered, is scarcely to be restrained from reaching successively every article of produce and of profit!"

"It may be the pride and pleasure of an American to ask, what Farmer, what Mechanic, what Labourer, ever sees a Tax-gatherer of the United States!"

PRESENTMENT OF THE GRAND JURY.

ALLEGHENY COUNTY, ss.
November Sessions, 1815.

THE Grand Inquest for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and for the body of the County of Allegheny, on their several oaths and affirmations respectively, do present: That induced by urgent considerations of their duty to the County of Allegheny, they have visited the Goal or common Prison of said County of Allegheny, and examined into the condition of the several prisoners therein confined: That they consider the said Prison as insecure for the confinement of Criminals, and others confined on criminal charges, and improper for the confinement of debtors, and persons placed there by civil process: That from the confined nature of said Goal, it frequently becomes necessary to mingle together convicts and debtors—persons confined on criminal and on civil process:

That urged by the considerations of public utility, as well as by the more earnest considerations of humanity, the Grand Jury would strenuously recommend to the County and its Commissioners—The erection of a New Goal, calculated to keep in separate and distinct apartments, those whose misfortunes may have brought them to the same place of confinement.

ALEX: JOHNSTON, Ca. Cashier.

DOCTOR CHISHOLM'S
Anti-Bilious Pills,

Of a quality superior to any thing of the kind ever offered as a GENERAL MEDICINE, in this Country.

NOW prepared from a recipe of the celebrated Dr. Chisholm, who, from a long residence in the West-India Islands, has been enabled to favor the world with the most complete history, and most approved methods of curing all the BILIOUS DISEASES of those warm climates.

This extraordinary Medicine, which now for the first time is finding its way into general practice, has properties in the highest degree superior to the mercurial nostrums so frequently recommended by the name of Anti-Bilious Pills. The extraordinary powers of this medicine as a solvent and evacuent of Bile, is without example; never producing debility or injuring the health, in the smallest degree, of the most delicate child or weakly female:

The BILIOUS HEAD-ACHE, so much complained of in this country, and in the neighbourhood of rivers, is often removed by a single dose, which, to a strong man, is only five pills, and to a weakly woman, three. The same dose will generally remove the most excruciating pains of the cholic, like a charm, by abusing the bile to pass downwards in the course of an hour or two.

Two or three Pills taken an hour before dinner, and repeated every third day, will effectually remove those diseases arising from flatulency and indigestion, and by persevering in the use of them for a considerable time, the appetite will be improved, and strength and vigor will return.

Two Pills taken at bed time, with a cup of penny-royal tea, and repeated every second night, will effectually remove Rheumatic pains wherever seated.

A single Pill, taken every fourth hour with a cup of flaxseed tea, will cure Pleurisy, promote expectoration, and relieve coughs and colds.

In CONSUMPTIVE CASES and DISEASES OF THE LIVER, no medicine ever yet discovered, has been known to perform such cures. Two Pills taken every third morning, will be found sufficient, unless costiveness prevails; in which case the dose may be increased according to the strength or constitution.

The Dysentery, Croup, and Summer Complaint on children, are soon relieved by a few doses. A single Pill to a child of 6 years old, and the dose increased according to their strength and age.

In Asthmatic or Phthisical cases, where the laborious breathing and great oppression, with faintings, are fast sinking the patient to the brink of the grave, a few Pills, taking one every hour, with fennel or pepper-mint tea, will often enable the patient to walk about in a few hours.

The above valuable Medicine is Sold ONLY in Pittsburgh, by
J. P. & J. W. SKELTON,
At their Wholesale and Retail Apothecary and Drug Store.

DOCTOR HANDY'S
WORM
DESTROYING LOZENGES.

A safe and efficacious medicine for destroying and bringing away WORMS.

MAY be used with safety by children of any age, or as common physic by the most delicate constitution, in any climate, without restraint of diet, or the smallest danger from cold. It may be given with advantage after the small-pox or measles; or as a family medicine, in any case where physic is necessary.—The most frequent seat of worms in the human body, is the intestinal tube; but occasionally they have been found in almost every other part of the body.

Some very extraordinary cases of Worms, of an unusual form and appearance, being brought away by these Lozenges, have been made public in England, where the rapid sale of the medicine has exceeded any thing of the kind ever known before; and has also proved, to a demonstration, its approved superiority, as an athelminthick, to the numerous puffed-up, useless nostrums, which are daily advertised in the newspapers.

A single dose of this valuable medicine has often been known to remove half a pot full of the Teres or Round Worms.

A few doses are generally sufficient to remove the Ascarides, a small white worm, the seat of which is either the stomach or rectum.

Even the Tape Worm, at all times the most difficult to destroy, may, by persevering in the frequent use of this medicine, be totally removed in the course of a few weeks.

To select cases, with the names of people who are not known here, and living at a great distance, would be useless, and take up too much of the readers time. We shall therefore only observe, for the benefit of those who are acquainted with the symptoms of worms, that they are known or suspected to exist by a pain in the stomach, attended with a sudden depression of spirits before eating; at other times the belly is hard, painful and distended with wind—costiveness, head ache, and trembling of the limbs, with a sense of something rising in the throat—pale complexion and emaciated body, with weakness and irregular appetite—convulsive, epileptic or falling fits—pains in the back and side, and frequent itching of the nose, and sometimes of the anus. The above and a long train of afflicting diseases may all be occasioned by worms, which are much oftener the cause of death than is commonly believed.

The above Valuable MEDICINE, is sold,
ONLY, by
J. P. & J. W. Skelton,
At their WHOLESALE & RETAIL Drug Store, at the corner of Wood and Third Streets,

DOCTOR N. SMITH,

RESPECTFULLY informs the inhabitants of Pittsburgh and its vicinity, that he has been regularly licensed to practice PHYSICK AND SURGERY, and has for several years been engaged in the practice of its various branches, and therefore offers them his services, particularly in the capacity of a Dentist, hoping that his thorough knowledge of this branch of his profession, united with assiduity in business, and exertions to please, will entitle him to the patronage of the public. He cleans, repairs and extracts defective teeth, inserts new ones in such a manner and of such materials, the knowledge of which is peculiar to himself. He deems encomiums upon his performances superfluous, as he has set a number of artificial teeth since his residence in Pittsburgh those that have scruples respecting the operation are requested to call and satisfy themselves.

The operation of inserting and cleaning is attended with little or no pain.

He also prepares the highly celebrated Carbonic Dentrifice, which will keep the teeth white and prevent the collection of Tartor.

Applications made at Dr. MORRIS PARKER'S east side of Wood street, between Diamond Alley and Fifth streets.
